A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE RULES OF GOLF

- ❖ The earliest known written rules for the game date from 1744 - “Articles & Laws in Playing at Golf” (13 Articles) drafted by The Gentlemen Golfers of Leith
- ❖ Reasons for rule change include
 - the evolution of course design, maintenance and agronomics;
 - innovation in clubs, balls and other player equipment; and
 - the expansion and diversification in the landscapes where golf played.
- ❖ Revisions of a larger scope, as happened in 1899, 1934, 1952 and 1984

DEFINING A GAME: 1744-1899

- ❖ The 13 Articles of 1744 – first to record the Rules of Golf; - The Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St Andrews (The R&A)
- ❖ The R&A became acknowledged as the rulemaking authority.
- ❖ The R&A established its Rules of Golf Committee, leading to the first-ever consolidated code in 1899.
- ❖ The United States Golf Association was founded in 1894
- ❖ The USGA provided its interpretations of the rules, and began to diverge from The R&A Rules of Golf in significant ways

DECISIONS AND INTERPRETATIONS: 1899-1934

- ❖ The first official “decisions book” was published in 1908 by The R&A (the rulemaking authority)
- ❖ The USGA began doing the same in 1927
- ❖ The R&A revised its rulemaking processes including England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, Canada, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand in the late 1920s
- ❖ The R&A’s Rules of Golf Committee led a major revision to the R&A and USGA codes in 1934

 - Eliminating the stymie rule entirely,
 - Expanding the circumstances in which a lifted ball was allowed to be cleaned, and
 - Recognising the concept of a lateral water hazard where relief could be taken within two club-lengths of where the ball entered the hazard.

CONTINUING TO PURSUE UNIFORMITY: 1952-1984

- ❖ The USGA and The R&A began work on a revised code in 1954 and a further revision in 1956
- ❖ In 1960, it was agreed that a four-year revision cycle would be used going forward
- ❖ The new code was issued in 1984 using this reorganised structure and a revised writing style, and with various other revisions
- ❖ The publication of the first-ever uniform decisions book was issued in 1984

RESPONDING TO RAPID DEVELOPMENTS: 1984-PRESENT

- ❖ Revising the Decisions on the Rules of Golf every two years
- ❖ The number of decisions increased from 933 in 1985 to 1,275 in 2012
- ❖ The R&A and the USGA will remain committed to providing leadership and guidance in making and interpreting the Rules of Golf
